ESPN Data Group and Your School's Live Statistics

An easy way to achieve mutual goals

What we're doing: ESPN's Data Group is responsible for supplying fast, accurate information to all ESPN platforms for pro and college sports. As part of ESPN's commitment to college athletics, we're working hard to ensure that when your school's football and basketball information appears on any platform – SportsCenter, ESPN News, ESPN radio, ESPN.com for example – the numbers are as complete and accurate as your athletes deserve.

How it works: It's simple. A click of a button in the StatCrew program, along with a one-time check on your program's settings from your IT or StatCrew operators, allows your StatCrew operators to send play-by-play information to the Data Group. That information goes directly to our platforms or, more likely, is used to double-check the numbers we're gathering in real-time via a broadcast. This process does not affect your ability to send to your Web site.

Who's participating: In the 2006-07 school year, the first for the Data Group, over 100 college programs from nearly every Division I conference sent us live data for football and/or basketball. Working with the NCAA, this same setup also allowed us to provide much improved real-time results and exposure to tournament and championships in soccer, volleyball, baseball and softball. Our research and conversation with schools indicate no decline in their own site's traffic. That's because our target audiences are different. We want to attract the general, global fan of that specific sport. School sites want to attract fans and alumni. Our common goal is to get accurate information to everybody.

Common questions from Sports Information Directors

Will adjusting these settings affect anything else? No. StatCrew operators use the program the same way during games. Enabling the ESPN settings doesn't affect outputs to your school's Web Site or other media. We communicate closely with schools to ensure that they can send their accurate, timely information wherever they'd like.

Which schools or organizations are doing this? Among the schools we've worked with: Notre Dame, Ohio State, Arizona, Nebraska, Oregon, Texas A&M, Auburn and Louisville. We also have strong relationships with the NCAA, XOS and StatCrew as part of this initiative.

How does sending our play by play work to our benefit? Primarily, it's an issue of accuracy and exposure. By receiving your live play by play, we can ensure that all of the important data hits our platforms (such as College Gameday and SportsCenter) ... and that it's accurate. Our data editors do a great job, but YOUR crew is the official statistician. We want your numbers to be the ones our viewers see when they're watching a "Bottom Line" or an ESPN News score panel.

Aren't we driving fans from our own Web site? We strongly believe this is not the case. First off, we're not after the same fan. The strong "State University" fan is going to go to the "State University" Web Site on game day to get updates, chat, etc. The general college football fan who wants to see what's going on in different games will go to ESPN.com – not visit 20-25 different school sites. That's the fan we're after. There's plenty of room for growth serving both groups with as much data as possible.

Do you have any proof of that? Yes. Schools such as Ohio State, Texas A&M, Louisville and Purdue, for example, said they didn't notice any traffic decline on their sites after sending ESPN live statistics. We had an outside firm look at year-to-year traffic for a group of university Web sites during a busy basketball week. All of those sites showed at least incremental GROWTH in market share year-to-year, even after connecting with us.

FIVE TECH TIPS FOR SIDS

By Bob Lowe, Greensboro College SID CoSIDA Technology Committee

*Greetings from the CoSIDA Technology
Committee. Saving your valuable time is what we seek to do! The following five tips should help do just that.*

1). Easy Photo Storage

For some reason, it took me awhile to develop this plan. Here are my steps.

- A). Take the pictures (action or head shots). Have your photographer shoot so the jersey numbers are visible for identification. You can always crop later.
 - B). Download: let's assume they were men's soccer head shots, from camera to CD. The CD will be labeled and then stored in one of those black storage folders with sleeves.
 - C). Copy the images to a place on your desktop computer—let's say "msoccer/2007"
 - D). Go to the "msoccer/2007" folder in Internet Explorer. In the "Views" tab at the top, choose the "filmstrip" option.
 - E). Right click the photos in the filmstrip within Windows Explorer. Highlight "Rename" and label the files "beckham-david-hs-082507". This is your easily identified hi-resolution head shot photo to be used in media guides, or to be sent to newspaper.
 - F). After every photo has been renamed, copy all the photos and paste to your appropriate website folder.
 - G). Use your web management software to place and resize your images. Place the image by browsing to it. A window opens that allows you to resize and then to save to the appropriate folder on your web site. This folder is where you can access low-res images for future use.
- BONUS TIP: Have a shared network with personnel in your athletics communications office? Store the hi-res images on a shared network for easy access for all staffers.

2). More Photo Stuff

I've had two instances in the past year where we've needed bigger photos than we normally have. Posters and the ever popular wall photos (Fatheads) are becoming more popular. Keep this in mind for specific photo shoots. Your photos should set their cameras to the highest setting for image size.

3). Photoshop Web Photo Galleries

Ever have a coach give you a disk of 100 photos and ask to have them put on the web? Me too, and I've long been searching for time-saving way of getting photos to the web. The solution came via UNC Wilmington's Tom Rioridan (a CoSIDA Technology committee member) on the SID Board.

Photoshop's web galleries are the answer!

- A). Open (file/open) the photos you want in the gallery.
- B). Select file/automate/web photo gallery
- C). A box then opens up. You can choose the style of your album and the destination for the images on your site.
- D). Once the gallery is created, you can then link to that page.

4). Content Management Software

This is a very hot topic in the industry. Rapid changes in technology have been a burden on colleges who are now paying for the software infrastructure to third party content management system. Their software and expertise can save time for the SID.

Just about every NCAA Division institution is using a CMS (CSTV, XOS, etc.). Yet more small colleges are adding third parties (ICS, Presto Sports, to name a few). The swami says this will be a growth industry in the next few years.

CMS technology can be expensive; especially if you are currently using already purchased software and have assistance for your technical people when needed. If money is an issue, however, check out some of the open source CMS solutions, such as Joomla. Yet expect the money saved to result in minimal technical support and a lot hours setting up the system.

One thing CMS software can do is to place content in a number of places. For example, your team specific story can be posted on the main scoreboard page and also in the bowling archive for the year.

I'm hopeful we will soon transition to a CMS. However, there are time-saving things you can do to maximize your efficiency.

I pre-link the game stories. For example, link the bowling story vs. Tech from the "Bowling stories and news" before the game to our scoreboard/main page that will be updated shortly after the event is completed. That's one less thing to do in crunch time after the game. I then go back a day later and update the story's headline "State Host Tech" to reflect what actually happened in the game: "Heath's 300 Game Propels State to Win over Tech."

5). No mopeds on the freeway!

A summer-ending vacation put me back on the dial-up highway for two weeks. Let's just say my pages are still loading and that's a road I don't want to travel again! Wi-fi is more accessible now, but driving around seeking signals is no fun either. With that said, I need to take a closer look at mobile broadband.

Expect stories on mobile broadband and the following subjects.

- Adobe's new CS3 Creative Suite
- Webcasting
- Starting your own Blog
- Using Adobe Illustrator
- More on web Content management systems

THE COSIDA BOARD WOULD LIKE TO HEAR FROM YOU.

As we go through this year, the board would like to hear from you. If there are any items of interest that you would like for the board to consider this year, please contact a board member at least a week in advance of a scheduled call. The CoSIDA Board meets via conference call once a month (Nov. 15, Dec. 20, Jan. 17, Feb. 14, March 13, April 10, May 8 and June 5). Contact information for the board is located on www.cosida.com.

CoSIDA cannot be successful unless it has input and feedback from its membership. I encourage you to take an active role in CoSIDA and help direct the future of our profession.

Charles Bloom
CoSIDA President

COSIDA BOARD MINUTES - August 30, 2007

President Charles Bloom did a roll call.

I. Bloom asked all board members to submit agenda items for future board calls as they have them. He said the officers will have a brief call on the Monday before board calls to formulate the agenda. The agenda will then be posted on CoSIDA.com.

II. There was discussion of the awards portion of the Academic All-America program. Bloom said he had received an email from committee chairman Dick Lipe and it appeared that the awards process was farther along than it had appeared.

III. Bloom asked Marketing Director Ed Carpenter for an update on the ESPN contract for the Academic All-America program. He said he had emailed Josh Krulewitz, who said the contract was still with their lawyers. Carpenter said he was confident he would have the contract soon.

IV. There was talk of the Academic All-America trademark infringement by the swim coaches association.

V. There was discussion of the search for an Executive Director. College Division Representative Eric McDowell resigned from the search committee. After discussion, there was a motion, second and unanimous vote to add April Emory of Elizabeth City State and Rob Knox of Lincoln University to the committee. They joined Justin Doherty, Blake Timm, Judy Willson, Carol Hudson, Dave Wohlhueter, Pete Moore, Langston Rogers and Ed Carpenter on the committee.

VI. There was discussion of the charge of the search committee. Bloom said the charge was not to hire the person but to develop a group of finalists to interview and submit recommendations to the board. He asked Doherty to submit an updated timeline by the next board call. Doherty said the job was posted with a deadline of Sept. 15. It was decided that the deadline would be extended, but several applications had already been submitted. Doherty said Dec. 3 was going to be the original deadline, so he said the process was moving along ahead of schedule. Bloom said one board call needs to be devoted to the Executive Director process and timeline. Bloom asked Director of Online Services Jamie Joss to make sure that the position announcement remain on the front page of cosida.com.

VII. Doherty said he would check back with Sports Business Journal about posting the job there. He said he would shorten the ad to save money and post the full job description on-line.

VIII. Treasurer Dave Wohlhueter said that Mary Flynn of Marriott would no longer be CoSIDA's contact with Marriott. The board expressed its deep appreciation for all of Flynn's assistance to CoSIDA over the years. Wohlhueter said that Jeff Fagan would be the new contact.

IX. Bloom asked the board about the possibility of offering some type of professional development to the membership. He asked Carpenter to look into it for possible marketing potential as well. Bloom said his goal is for CoSIDA to offer professional development during the year and not just during the workshop.

X. First Vice President Nick Joos said that Getty Images had dropped its request for CoSIDA to pay for images it said were used on the CoSIDA website under a previous sponsorship agreement.

XI. Bloom asked the Marketing Committee to look at taking on the branding of CoSIDA, to include the logo, workshop, website, newsletter, directory, etc. Bill Wagner, Will Roleson, Jeff Hodges and Jamie Joss were added to the committee.

XII. Wohlhueter discussed the financial report on the 2007 workshop. He said in past years the workshop generated enough operating money for the budget for the next year. He said that has not been the case in recent years. Wohlhueter said he was working with the Tampa property to cut down on the number of rooms guaranteed. He said the board should start marketing the Tampa Workshop now online and in the Digest. He said the $129 room rate was excellent and the workshop is not over the 4th of July.

XIII. Joos gave an update from the workshop program committee and said there were more than enough ideas to fill the 2008 program schedule. He said he was excited about the possibilities.

XIV. Eric McDowell said the response to the workshop program survey had been incredible and said valuable feedback was coming in.

There was no further business and the call was adjourned.

What's Happening WITHIN THE RANKS

EASTERN KENTUCKY Adds Britton to Staff

The Eastern Kentucky University Athletics Department announced the addition of assistant director for athletic public relations

K e v i n
Britton.
Britton is now in his sixth year working in athletic public relations. He served as the Asstant Sports Information Director at Murray State for two years before accepting a similar role at Eastern. Britton began his professional career at the University of South Carolina Aiken for three years. Britton also served a year as a student assistant at Eastern Kentucky before earning his bachelor's degree from ECU in public relations. Britton will handle the public relation duties for volleyball, women's basketball, softball and golf at Eastern.

GEORGIA STATE Ericson Joins Staff

Steven Ericson has been named the assistant sports information director at Georgia State University as announced by Allison George, associate athletics director for communications. Ericson began his new duties effective Sept. 17 and will serve as the primary contact for volleyball and baseball while assisting with men's basketball and the entire 16-sport program.

Ericson comes to Georgia State after serving as the assistant sports information director at Mercer University for over two years. With the Bears, he served as the primary media liaison for women's soccer, women's basketball and golf. During his tenure at Mercer, Ericson worked at the 2005 Atlantic Sun Conference Men's Soccer Tournament and served as the host SID for the 2007 Atlantic Sun Men's Golf Championship.

Prior to his time at Mercer, he worked with the Atlanta Hawks media relations department following a two-year stint as a graduate assistant in the Georgia State Sports Communications Office. While at Georgia State, Ericson served as the primary contact for baseball and men's soccer and assisted with game-day duties for basketball.

In addition to his role at Georgia State, Ericson served as an intern for the Huntsville Stars baseball team during the summer of 2003. He helped promote a Stars team, a AA affiliate of the Milwaukee Brewers, which featured current major leaguers Corey Hart and 2007 National League All-Star J.J. Hardy.

Ericson, a resident of Marietta, Ga., received his master's degree from Georgia State in sports administration in 2003 while earning his bachelor's degree in journalism from GSU in 2001.

HARVARD Svoboda Promoted to Director

Kurt Svoboda has been promoted to Director of Athletic Communications at Harvard. Svoboda, who is in his third year overall at Harvard, will serve as the departmental spokesperson responsible for disseminating information for the nation's largest Division I intercollegiate athletic program to appropriate organizations.

Svoboda will work directly with the football, men's basketball and baseball programs as well as several others. In 2006, he served as the media coordinator overseeing over 200 media members at the NCAA Women's Basketball Championship event held at the TDA Banknorth Garden.

Before coming to Harvard, Svoboda served as the Director of Sports information at Saint Anselm College from 2001-2005. He was the recipient of 18 district and national publications awards including the nation's top divisional baseball media guide in 2003, the best media guide cover in 2005 and a second place finish in the 2002-03 men's basketball media guide design.

A 2000 graduate of Colby-Sawyer College, Svoboda was a four-year letter-winner with the baseball team, earning academic all-conference honors and playing on two conference championship squads. Svoboda graduated Magna Cum Laude with a B.S. in exercise and sport sciences and a discipline in sport management.

Upon graduation, he served as the first-ever James "Lou" Gorman Publicist for the New England Collegiate Baseball League (NECBL) while also working as an Assistant Director of Sports Information at Franklin Pierce College.

After a two-year stint as an assistant baseball coach in the NECBL, he returned to the central office as Deputy Commissioner responsible for player contracts and eligibility.

In addition to his duties at the College, Svoboda has served as an official scorer for the N.H. Fisher Cats AA-level baseball team, and the N.H. Wolves Arena Football League team. He is also active in area AAU baseball programs.

Svoboda, who is pursuing his master's degree at Harvard, resides in Cambridge, Mass. with his fiancé, Joanna.

MERCY Brown Elevated

Bill Sullivan, Mercy College's assistant athletics director for internal operations, and Ashlee Kelly, assistant athletics director for student services, have been appointed co-interim athletics directors by Mercy President Dr. Louise H. Feroe. Drew Brown, assistant athletics director for external affairs, has been elevated to associate athletics director, and Dr. Darryl Bullock, assistant to the athletics director, has been elevated to interim business manager.

Sullivan and Kelly step in for Dr. Kevin T. McGinniss who resigned as athletics director in August to become director of athletic development at the University of Rhode Island.

Sullivan has served as assistant athletics director for internal operations since February of 2006. In this position he has assisted in the oversight and coordination of all internal activities associated with the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics and Recreation. His day-to-day responsibilities have included management and scheduling of athletics facilities and team practices, operations and event planning on game days, and inventory control of all department equipment and supplies. Sullivan is also in his 14th year as Head Baseball Coach after serving three years as an assistant coach.

Kelly was named head women's basketball coach and assistant athletics director for student services at Mercy College in June of 2006. In this dual position, Kelly has directed the women's basketball program, helping it to a seven-game improvement in 2006-07, and served as the department liaison for financial aid, admissions and academic advising. She has also assisted with compliance and the Student Athlete Advisory Committee, while overseeing academic monitoring, instituted the NCAA CHAMPS/Life Skills program and served as the department's senior women's administrator.

Brown joined the staff in March of 2006. He oversees and coordinates all athletics communications, marketing and promotions for the department. Brown maintains the athletics department website, www.mercyathletics.com, serves as writer/editor for all publications, and manages media relations. He also works with the College's marketing and public relations offices to showcase the athletics program both externally and within the College community.

A 1973 graduate of Mercy, Dr. Bullock has served the College in a number of capacities since returning to Dobbs Ferry in 1975. His most recent responsibilities have been in the area of budget development and review. He is the point person for all NCAA survey and study requests. Dr. Bullock continues to be involved as a Student Athlete Advisory Committee advisor while serving as head coach for the men's and women's cross-country/track and field program.

SOUTH FLORIDA Wuerth Hired as Assistant

The University of South Florida Athletic Department announced the hiring today of Jeff Wuerth to the position of Assistant Sports Information Director.

At USF, Wuerth will handle all the communication needs for men's basketball, in addition to various duties with the school's athletics website, www.GoUSFBulls.com.

Wuerth comes to USF after eight months in the Ohio State Athletics Communications office. Prior to OSU, Wuerth spent more than nine years as the Director of Public Relations for the Columbus Crew in Major League Soccer.

With the Crew, Wuerth managed all of the organization's communication needs, and also handled the same responsibilities for Columbus Crew Stadium. Crew Stadium opened in May of 1999 as the first major league stadium built specifically for soccer in the United States. He also oversaw the media relations for major stadium events such as MLS Cup 2001, the 2000 and 2005 MLS All-Star games, two U.S.-Mexico World Cup Qualifiers and three doubleheaders of the 2003 FIFA Women's World Cup.

While at Ohio State he worked with the men's and women's ice hockey teams and the baseball team. Before the Crew, the Cincinnati native spent two additional years in the Ohio State Athletics Communications office and two years in the Sports Information office at Western Michigan University.

The 36-year old graduated from Otterbein (Ohio) College in 1993 with a degree in communications and minor in public relations.

He also is currently a vice chair of the organization's Committee on Committees. He has also worked on CoSIDA's Writing Contest and Charity committees.

Chuck has worked in press services at many large events including serving as the Mixed Zone Manager for baseball at the 1996 Atlanta Olympics, working at the track cycling and boxing venues at the 1998 Goodwill Games in New York City, working at the 2000 USA Olympic Track Cycling Trials in Frisco, Texas. NCAA STATISTICS

By Jeff Williams, NCAA Statistics Department

It is amazing how fast the year has flown by as the NCAA has already crowned many champions this fall. As we end the 2007 season, the NCAA Statistics Department wishes you and your family — Happy Holidays and Happy New Year.

MEN'S AND WOMEN'S SOCCER AND VOLLEYBALL FINAL STATISTICS AND ATTENDANCE

If your conference has been submitting your men's and women's soccer and volleyball stats each reporting period, we'll take the final stats from the conference office. If you have reported your stats independently, then you are responsible for filing the final stats report.

The final stats file will include each team's results as well as the statistics for every player, not just the team's leaders, so if the conference stats file doesn't include those results, we will notify the conference SID to alert you to go in and complete those results.

When you are filing your final statistics, we will also be capturing your season attendance from the XMLs. Please make sure that each match has an attendance, and if you have a 0 entered for a match, please make an educated guess on the attendance and enter the total. If you have any question on whether your conference is filing the report for you, please check with the conference for confirmation.

Football

The deadline for reporting the final football stats is Dec. 17 for Divisions II and Division III.

Men's Soccer

The deadline for reporting the final men's soccer stats is Dec. 4 for Division I, Nov. 21 for Division II and Nov. 28 for Division III. Those teams in the championships will need to submit their report right after the championship.

Women's Soccer

The deadline for reporting the final men's soccer stats is Dec. 4 for Division I, Nov. 21 for Division II and Nov. 28 for Division III. Those teams in the championships will need to submit their report right after the championship.

Volleyball

The deadline for reporting the final volleyball stats is Dec. 19 for Division I, Nov. 28 for Division II and Nov. 21 for Division III. Those teams in the championships will need to submit their report right after the championship.

Field Hockey

The deadline for reporting the final field hockey stats is Nov. 20 all three divisions. Those teams in the championships will need to submit their report right after the championship.

2007 INSTRUCTIONS FOR COMPLETING ON-LINE WINTER ROSTERS

Log on to: <http://web1.ncaa.org/stats/StatsSrv/login>
 Enter your username (school code) and password.
 Click on "Rosters" under a particular sport.

HEAD COACH

Please confirm that all information listed for your head coach is correct. If you made changes in the coaching information while entering your 2007-08 schedule earlier this fall, those changes should be reflected here. If there are any changes, click "Edit" and tab or mouse over to the appropriate column(s). Click "Update" when finished, then "Submit". If you have a new coach, click "Add New Coach", enter the requested information, then click "Update".

NOTE: Our program automatically scans your roster from our system last year, deletes all players listed as seniors and updates freshmen, sophomores and juniors to sophomores, juniors and seniors, respectively.

VERY IMPORTANT!!!: Do not type over the information of an old player to add a new player. Please delete the old player and add the new one using "Add More Player(s)". Each player is assigned an NCAA data base number that is used for our career statistics feature. If a new player's name is typed over the old player, the new player will receive the old player's career statistics. Please follow our instructions for deleting and adding players.

TO CHANGE INFORMATION FOR AN EXISTING PLAYER

Click "Edit" to the right of the player's name, then place your mouse over any category that needs to be changed or you also can tab from column to column. Please note the drop-down menu for "Position" only allows you to select "Guard", "Forward" or "Center" and the "Height" option does not allow anything but whole inches (5-10, not 5-9 $\frac{1}{2}$). After editing each player, click the "Update" button, then "Submit."

TO DELETE A PLAYER

If there are players listed who no longer are on your team, click "Delete" on the far right of that player's name. You will receive a warning asking if you are sure you want to delete this player. Click "OK" and the player will be dropped from your roster.

TO ADD A PLAYER

Click the "Add More Player(s)" button at the bottom of the roster page. A screen will appear, allowing you to add up to 10 new players. Enter the information for each player and click "Update," then "Submit" to take you back to the main roster screen. All player names should be entered in upper and lower case.

FINAL STEP

To be sure you listed everyone, click "Jersey #" to see your roster numerically or click "Name" to sort it alphabetically. Once you have completed your roster, click the "Submit" button to send it to the NCAA.

You can either "Log Out" by clicking in the top right or return to your school's main menu options by clicking on "Click here."

DURING THE SEASON

You can update player information any time during the season (change of position, change of height, name, etc.), using the same format as above. You also can add players to the roster after the season begins. You can delete players, PROVIDED THEY HAVE NOT ALREADY ACCUMULATED ANY STATISTICS. If a player leaves the team who already has statistics and a new player assumes his uniform number, the new player must be designated with the letter "A" after the number (i.e. 14 and 14A).

SCORE REPORTING

The NCAA statistics staff would like to be clear on the issue of score reporting and sending in weekly statistics. The reporting of statistics and score reporting process are two entirely different procedures. While the reporting of weekly statistics is done by the Statistics Department staff, the score reporting process is initiated and maintained by the NCAA Championships staff.

Statistics reporting procedures are still the same as they have been for a number of years. If you do not receive instructions from any of the statistics staff (which includes Jim Wright, Gary Johnson, Sean Straziscar, Bonnie Senappe, J.D. Hamilton, Jenn Blomenberg, Jeff Williams and Kevin Buerge), then you should continue with regular statistics reporting procedures.

If you have any questions, please contact the appropriate person:

REPORTING OF WEEKLY AND FINAL STATISTICS

The NCAA is in its sixth year of using the online reporting system. The website for this year is <http://web1.ncaa.org/stats/StatsSrv/login>. Your username and password have not changed and are the same from last year, however, if you need either one, please don't hesitate to email us and we will provide you with the information. Please pass these on to any assistants/interns who will need the codes for sports they cover.

When the weekly stats are posted, take a couple of minutes to check them over and make sure that the players on your teams are ranked where they should be. If not, contact us immediately so we can track down whether the stats were submitted or not. If you or your conference office submitted the stats, we can check to see why the players or the team are missing from the rankings. If they weren't submitted and you call right after the rankings are posted, we'll work to get them included. Don't wait until a day later or the end of the week to check them and then call about missing players.

If the team's records are not completed on the first page of the online submission site, the program cannot calculate your individual player's games vs. the team's games played to ensure that they meet the minimum requirements (whether it is 75 percent of team games played, or one inning pitched for each team game, etc.) since it will be 0. So if you're reporting independently, be sure to fill out that record on the initial page.

Throughout the season, check on your players' stats, because if they're not listed and should have been throughout most of the season, they might not be listed among the national leaders in the final rankings. Every season we have teams who turn in only their final stats, or their final and only one or two weekly reports, and then call to find out why they're not listed among the leaders. The NCAA Manual in each division states (31.10.1.1):

For a member institution to be eligible for either an individual or a team national statistics title it shall have filed reports with the national office before the mid-point in its regular-season schedule and shall have reported weekly thereafter. If a conference office files the reports, both the league and the institution share the responsibility for providing the updates on a regular basis.

When the final stats come out, please check those over quickly, as well, to ensure that your players and/or team are accurately represented. Don't wait weeks to check on them. We know that when one season ends, you're smack in the middle of another season, and most likely working on media guides for the one after that. We were all former SIDs and understand the time constraints, but please take a few minutes and look for your players and/or team that should be ranked. Don't wait until you're working on the review for your media guide and then call us to say so—and so was listed with too many games played, that your team totals are off, etc. A few minutes spent soon after the weekly/final stats are posted will help out immensely!

Along with this, please remember to include an attendance total for all individual games or matches. If you do not include a total, we will give a 0 for each blank game or match and this could really affect your season attendance in our final rankings.

As always, we are open to suggestions, and are available to answer any questions that you may have, so please don't hesitate to call or email us.

FAXING OF BOX SCORES/WEEKLY RELEASES

In the era of the internet and email, institutions no longer need to fax box scores, or fax or mail weekly releases. The only time that we would ask you to fax a box score is when a record is broken. When you do so, please identify the record.

Questions . . .

With Todd Anderson Sports Information Director University of North Carolina-Pembroke

1. Where have you been, who are the people who have influenced you and what are your long-term goals?

I have always been interested in sports so I wanted to translate and pursue a career in sportswriting. When I got to the University of Alabama as a freshman in 1993 and worked at the student newspaper, my enrollment pre-dated email, Internet and electronic pagination so late nights were twice as long as they would be now because we actually had to print out the paper, then cut, glue and match on a big paste board. I actually first got interested in sports information in crossing paths with the University of Alabama athletic media relations staff. When my interest in working 3 a.m. late nights fizzled—and boy did they fizzle—I conveyed my interest in sports information to then-Alabama athletic media relations director Larry White. I guess he thought highly of me because I was the first student worker in their office to have his own sport (women's soccer) and, five months later, I sort of took over the reigns of softball contact from a full-timer there. I worked at Alabama as a student for one year, then worked one year as an intern, both years with the women's soccer and softball teams. After that, I spent seven years working at Mississippi State as an assistant athletic media relations director handling the same duties for the Maroon and White.

I have had a handful of people that have influenced me – some I still converse with to this day. Becky Hopf at Alabama (men's basketball) had a huge influence on me and, to this day, still gives me advice on a lot of different aspects of this field. Rob "Roots" Woodruff (Alabama gymnastics contact) had a very positive influence on me as well because of his design and writing skills and his work ethic. If he had not thrown me into the fire in a lot of different aspects of this field, I would not have learned them as quickly as I did. David Rosinski (Mississippi State men's basketball contact) also had a very strong influence on me as well because of his tireless attention to detail. Currently, my athletic director at UNC Pembroke has had an outstanding influence on me as far as mentoring my leadership skills.

I would have to say my long-term goals are to eventually get into an assistant athletic director or even athletic director position, but I realize I still have a lot to learn in this field, as well as in administration. Hopefully, one day I will get my chance to be a positive mentor to young SIDs as all of those I mentioned previously were to me.

2. Your school is in its first year of intercollegiate football competition. What challenges has that presented you as SID?

Wow, I can't tell you the challenges I have faced in the first season already. Planning is such a huge part of the situation here and, without the planning meetings that we have, we would not have survived the season so far. Because I have experience working in the football press boxes at both Alabama and Mississippi State, I kind of knew what to expect as far as what challenges would be presented to me. That helped a lot because I knew what we would need to do both pre-game and post-game. I would have to tell you the biggest challenge would be time management as far as it pertains to the other 15 sports we have here as well. Myself and my assistant sports information director, Matt Pellegrin, use the word "deadline" a lot because that word absolutely has to be in our vocabulary. We have to set absolute limits for ourselves or there is a high possibility that we won't ever get our heads above water again.

3. There are numerous Division I and professional teams in North Carolina. What does it take for UNC-Pembroke to generate media attention?

Well, I honestly think that sports sell themselves in this state. There is such a high interest in athletics, especially collegiate athletics, in the state of North Carolina and generating media attention, especially to a school in the University of North Carolina system, is the easy part. I actually think that because there are numerous Division I and professional teams in this state, the local citizens want a team to call their own. Southeastern North Carolina has totally embraced UNCP football since the time we announced it was making a return to our campus. Because it is so popular, I think the media has no choice but to make it one of their priorities. We have interest in our program from as far away as Charlotte (2-hour drive) and Florence/Myrtle Beach (90-minute drive) so the folks in those areas are embracing us as well. It's a really exciting time to be involved with this university.

4. All SIDs must juggle a lot of tasks. How do you determine priorities?

Your priorities are pretty much outlined for you from year-to-year. Obviously, your first priorities are to the sports that are in season, but you always budget time for other things that may pop up in the off-season. Planning is such a huge part of the sports information field that you often find yourself saying "Okay, this media guide has to be done by this date but, then again, men's basketball may need this by when?" You pretty much have to prepare yourself for anything in this field, from computers locking up mid-game to a scoreboard not working correctly. Priorities are pretty much determined by ear and season. Carpe Diem.

5. What have been your favorite moments as an SID?

Well, I was taught early in this profession not to get yourself involved emotionally with your team, but it's difficult. Obviously, your favorite moments are when the teams you're working with win a conference title, or even one of my favorite moments this year was when our football team ran on to the field for the first time since 1950. Sometimes it's the little things too, like everything working right on game day, getting to sleep in an extra hour and things like that. You learn to appreciate that extra time in this field.
